Education Development Trust

Education Development Trust design and deliver learning and development programmes for educators in the UK. They deliver knowledge, programme design, and implementation methods through trusted partnerships with governments, academics, and multilateral agencies. They help clients and partners apply their knowledge to local contexts throughout England, particularly those from disadvantaged communities.

They offer the National Careers Service in the North East, Cumbria, Yorkshire, The Humber, and parts of South East England. This service offers informed careers, employment and skills support to help people bridge the gap between their education, training, and employment. Support is offered face-to-face, via webchat, or on the phone. You can access the Nation Careers Service and find out more on their website, which is listed below.
